Summary

Here is a single-paragraph summary of the document:

The article introduces a new journal, AI Thermal Fluids (AITF), which aims to bridge the gap between the thermal-fluid sciences and engineering and artificial intelligence (AI) communities. AITF will publish research and innovations on the development and deployment of AI techniques to promote fundamental understanding, improve prediction capabilities, and solve problems in thermal-fluid systems. The journal will cover a broad range of topics, including transport phenomena, energy exchange, environmental applications, and more. The launch of AITF marks a significant milestone in advancing AI-driven solutions to thermal-fluid challenges, and the journal aims to play a vital role in enabling the AI revolution to unfold in the field.
